Timing and organisation

Each slot is 30 minutes long. The chair should ensure that it starts promptly on the hour or half hour, and (apart from the last slot in each session) finishes a couple of minutes before the hour/half hour, to allow audiences to move between sessions.

Speakers should ensure that they finish their talk within 20 minutes, and may be cut off by the chair if they fail to do so, to allow sufficient time for questions.

Speakers are politely requested to attend the whole session of which their talk is a part.

Audience members are requested to keep their questions very brief, only to ask one question at a time, and not to come back to the speaker with a follow-up question or remark unless explicitly permitted to do so by the chair. Chairs are asked to adopt and enforce the hand/finger distinction. A hand represents a new question, and a finger represents a follow-up question or request for clarification that is highly relevant to the question/answer just given.

Keynote sessions will be filmed for release under a Creative Commons Licence. Please contact the local organiser if you do not want to be filmed as an audience member, otherwise permission will be assumed.
