

The
British Psychological
Society

University of Bedfordshire

Networking Families Seminar Series

Locating gendered relationships in digital space

The
British Psychological
Society

Networking Families Seminar Series

Young women's digital lives

Open University Camden

- Monday 25th of March 2019

Digital mothering

University of Bradford

- Thursday 9th of May 2019

Digital families

Open University Camden

- Friday 28th of June 2019

The
British Psychological
Society

Networking Families Research Group

- Rose Capdevila: The Open University
- Charlotte Dann: University of Northampton
- Lisa Lazard: The Open University
- Abigail Locke: University of Bradford
- Sandra Roper: University of Bedfordshire

The
British Psychological
Society

University of Bedfordshire

50
YEARS

UNIVERSITY of BRADFORD

University of Northampton

Networking Families Research Group

<http://fass.open.ac.uk/research/groups/networking-families>

Networking Families takes a critical psychological perspective to examining the phenomenon of social media practices through the lens of gender and relationships. Efforts to explore and conceptualise families' routine engagement in digital spaces have, notably, been marked by negative characterisation in both academic and popular arenas. For example, young women's online selfie posting practices are typically understood as an expression of digital narcissism. Parents' posting of child and family focused content, for instance, has been dominantly described using the term 'sharenting' – a pejorative term focusing on parental oversharing on social media. While research in these areas is burgeoning, much less has been said about positive engagements or how digital technological practices can support or translate into family relationships more generally.

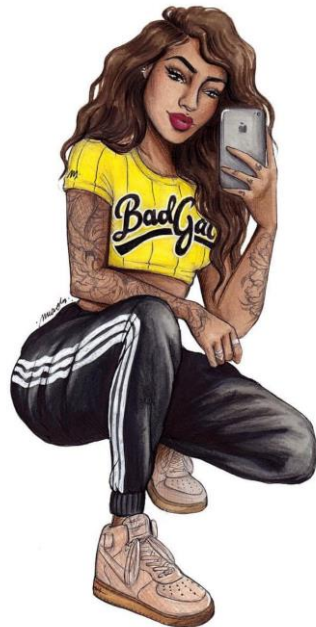

The
British
Psychological
Society

University of Bedfordshire

Networking Families Seminar Series

Young women's digital lives

The
British
Psychological
Society

University of Bedfordshire

Young women's digital lives

Morning

10.30 Arrival & Coffee

11.00 Welcome

11.30 Emma Turley

12.00 Rose Capdevila

12.20 Charlie Dann

12.40 Discussion

13.00 Lunch

Afternoon

13.45 Video discussion

14.15 Annelot Prins

14:30 Beth Bell

15.00 Tea and Coffee

15.15 Panel discussion

15.45 Plenary

16.00 Closing