

McGill-Queen's University Press

Global Nuclear Histories

A major new international series

Editors: Luc-André Brunet (The Open University), Toshihiro Higuchi (Georgetown University), Eirini Karamouzi (University of Sheffield/American College of Greece)

Image: By Tony French - Own work, CC BY-SA 3.0,
<https://commons.wikimedia.org/w/index.php?curid=22967524>

Overview

This book series brings together leading scholarship in the field of nuclear history from around the world. Drawing on security studies, protest movements, history of science, and cultural studies, this interdisciplinary series offers new insights into myriad aspects of nuclear history. Taking a truly global approach to these questions, the series places special emphasis on studies beyond the Cold War superpowers to de-centre and decolonise nuclear history.

McGill-Queen's University Press

International Advisory Board:

Matthew Jones (LSE)

Thomas Jonter (University of Stockholm)

Akira Kurosaki (Fukushima University)

Nicola Leveringhaus (King's College London)

Holger Nehring (University of Stirling)

Leopoldo Nuti (University of Rome 3)

Christian Ostermann (Woodrow Wilson Center)

Carlo Patti (Federal University of Goias, Brazil)

Or Rabinowitz (Hebrew University of Jerusalem)

Maria Rentetzi (Friedrich-Alexander-Universität, Erlangen-Nürnberg)

Egle Rindzeviciute (Kingston University)

Jayita Sarkar (University of Glasgow)

Svetlana Savranskaya (National Security Archive, Washington, DC)

Anna-Mart van Wyk (University of Johannesburg)

Contacts

Luc-André Brunet – email luc-andre.brunet@open.ac.uk

Toshihiro Higuchi – email th233@georgetown.edu

Eirini Karamouzi – email e.karamouzi@sheffield.ac.uk

Richard Baggaley, UK Editor, MQUP – email Richard.Baggaley.mqup@mcgill.ca

Forthcoming titles

Luc-André Brunet, Canada's Second Cold War: Nuclear Weapons, Peace Activism, and the Atlantic Alliance, 1977-1991

Kevin O'Daly and Pippa Catterall, Living in the Shadow: British Intelligence and the Soviet Nuclear Threat 1949-62